The convention was called to order by Mrs. Clarence G. Burton, of Richmond, as sectedary.

The pulpit and pulpit's platform are very handsomely decorated with flowers, paims and potted plants in honor of the convention, and present a beautiful appearance from the front. The pulpit is surmounted with a large Mailese cross, the badge of the order, and beneath hangs a flag bearing the legand in letters of gold: "The King's Daughters of Virginia." In the centre of the figs is a Maitese cross, with the motto, "I. H. S."

In calling the convention to order, Mrs. Burton expressed pleasure in freeting the delegates. She presides with grace and dignity and keeps the body well in the line of business. The proceedings were opened with the singing of the Doxology and devotional exercises, conducted by the Rev. D. H. Ralston, pastor of the church. Mr Ralston read from the seventh chapter of Whise Daisy Wilson, of Petersburg.

The address of welcome was delivered by Miss Daisy Wilson, of Petersburg was most cordial. Miss Katherine Edwards, of Richmond, made the response on behalf of the convention in terms of the warmest appreciation of the hospitality offered by the people of Petersburg.

Difficult to Say Just When Argument of Counsel Will Begin.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BOYDTON, VA. October 27.—In the trial of E. W. Overbey that began vesterday, Judge Barksdale adjourned court at about 2.30 P. M. to allow Mr. Boudar, the accountant, to go over the books and check up the liabilities and assets of the bank, so as to verify them with his report of the condition of the banks as of the 14th of February last. This is required of Mr. Boudar in reply to a question asked by defense on cross examination of witness. This morning the accountant reported that he had not completed the work, and court was again adjourned until the statement was completed. The trial is progressing very slowly, and it is difficult to tell when the argument will begin.

other detectives, they have not fixed
the responsibility for the crime.
The coroner's jury this afternoon adjourned, to reconvene next Thursday,
when additional evidence is expected.
Jones, a prosperous farmer, aged fifty-two years, received the fatal charges shortly after 10 o'clock last night. Two loads of No. 6 shot were fired, one into his abdomen and the other into his breast.
Three pistol bullets also took effect—
one below the chin and mouth, one in
